

Peer Review - Hitesh Kumar Dasika.

The instructions given in the Readme file were easy to follow and could get the micro services started using the commands.

The user interface was presentable and the web application worked till the step of taking the user information to Register.

However on running the web application the Register function was not working as a result could not proceed to check the web application completely.

The code is readable.

More information is needed on the architecture of the app and also functioning of the system. This could be updated in the Wiki.